

Emma Ritchie Biography

Emma Ritchie is a rhythm tap dancer, teacher, and choreographer based in Calgary, AB. Emma began dancing at the age of 3. She trained and competed in various dance forms at a studio in Calgary for 12 years. Throughout these years Emma had always taken a particular liking to tap dance which led her to join the Tri-Tone Rhythm Ensemble; performance and training program, as well as the Tri-Tone Teacher Training program, under the direction of Tasha Lawson. In addition, Emma, has travelled across Canada, the U.S.A and Europe, to train with the masters at numerous tap festivals. Her most studies were at Luthier School of Music and Dance in Barcelona, where she completed a 9 month “Professional Training Program for Tap Dancers” in 2021. Emma is currently teaching and choreographing throughout Calgary and is a performer in Tasha Lawson’s new company “Lawson Percussive Dance Arts”. Emma continues to expand her studies in both rhythm tap and music.
